This week to help with the words I've recruited "Wanksy", who has put down her sawdust and taken up the medium of (extended) Haiku:

Hashing in the dark – headtorches needed now for running through the bogs.

*We passed fluffy cows,
a mother and four small calves.*

But how many pats?

*The checks were so long,
the Longs went too far down one false trail – bloody 'Fish!*

Boggy and Crackle

followed a check to nowhere -

no cross, no sawdust.

Oh, what a cruel run!

But at least we didn't have to see Loupy's bum.

~Wanksy~

Also, in non-hashing news Crackle Snaffler, Dead End & Soggy Bottom completed the virtual London Marathon, and Oaty did the actual real one. No bogs but still an amazing achievement, well done all!
